

Funding Sustainability and Domain Repositories

Jared Lyle

Inter-university Consortium for Political and Social Research

lyle@umich.edu

This overview presentation will outline several primary issues regarding funding sustainability for domain repositories, including existing funding models, known inefficiencies, and possible solutions. This will be followed by big picture questions that will lead into a larger group discussion. As a 2013 Call for Change from an Interdisciplinary Working Group of Domain Repositories noted, "There may not be one solution to the problem—repositories may very well need different funding models across domain and repository type."